

Supporting Gender Non-Conforming Children: A Workshop for Parents, School Counselors, and Teachers

In this workshop, we will begin by establishing our vocabulary and exploring the questions we have about how to support our gender non-conforming children or adolescents. We will then look at a clinical model for how to understand our work, exploring current best practices of how best to support our gender creative children.

This workshop is appropriate for all adults who are looking for ways to think about how to work with gender non-conforming, transgender, or non-binary children or adolescents, and can be tailored to meet the needs of specific audiences.

Attention will be paid to establishing a safe and supportive space so participants can explore their assumptions and concerns.
